Duties

- Food Preparation: The primary duty of a cafeteria assistant is to assist in food preparation. This may include chopping vegetables, preparing salads, assembling sandwiches, and portioning food items. They may also be responsible for cooking or reheating certain dishes according to established recipes or instructions.
- Serving Food: Cafeteria assistants serve food to customers or students. They ensure food is distributed promptly and orderly, often using cafeteria trays or plates. They may operate food service equipment, such as steam tables or food warmers, to maintain the appropriate temperature of the food.
- Cashier Duties: Occasionally, assistants may be required to handle cash transactions. This includes operating cash registers, handling money, and providing customers with accurate change. They may also be responsible for maintaining records of sales or transactions.
- Cleanliness and Sanitation: Maintaining a clean and hygienic environment is crucial in a cafeteria. Cafeteria assistants are responsible for cleaning and sanitizing work areas, dining tables, serving counters, and utensils. They may also assist in dishwashing or operating commercial dishwashers.
- Inventory Management: Some cafeteria assistants are responsible for managing inventory. This involves keeping track of food and supplies, restocking items as needed, and notifying supervisors when inventory levels are low. They may also help with inventory rotation to ensure food freshness.
- Customer Service: Cafeteria assistants interact with customers or students daily. They should provide friendly and efficient service, answer questions about menu options or ingredients, and professionally address any concerns or complaints.
- Compliance with Health and Safety Regulations: Cafeteria assistants must adhere to health and safety regulations related to food handling, storage, and preparation. This includes taking the mandatory “CA Food Handler” course that addresses proper food safety practices, maintaining cleanliness standards, and understanding and implementing proper sanitation procedures.
- Teamwork: Cafeteria assistants often work as part of a team and need to collaborate effectively with other staff members, such as cooks, servers, or supervisors. They may assist in coordinating tasks, sharing responsibilities, and supporting each other during busy periods.
- The Cafeteria assistant also plays a role in helping students learn responsibility and independence, as well as providing a Christian role model for the students.
